Human-to-Human Project Overview

Introduction

The Human to Human project is a compassionate initiative launched by the Disabled People's Organization of Bhutan (DPOB) to support persons with disabilities in the self-care category. This initiative targets 2.4% of the 6.8% of persons with disabilities in the country, aiming to enhance their quality of life through community donations.

Project Concept

Human to Human is designed to facilitate donations through the DPOB website. The project will feature profiles of individuals in the self-care category, each requiring a fixed contribution of Nu. 3000. Donors, whether organizations or individuals, can contribute any amount towards the total required donation. Each contribution will be deducted from the total amount needed, allowing multiple donors to collectively support a single individual.

Project Timeline

As per regulations, DPOB will seek the necessary approvals from the Civil Society Authority to ensure compliance and transparency. With approval, we will work on the website for the fundraising and kick start by August End 2024.

Eligibility Criteria

To be eligible for the Human to Human project, a person with a disability under self-care must provide two forms:

1. Medical Certification: A certificate from a qualified treating physician certifying the individual as under self-care.
2. Local Leader Certification: A certification from a local leader, preferably the Gup, verifying that the individual is not a recipient of Kidu (under the welfare of the King) and that the family is economically challenged.

Addressing Policy and Implementation Challenges

Although the National Policy for Persons with Disabilities includes provisions for conditional cash transfers from the government, the implementation of this policy has been hindered by a lack of resources and the country's economic challenges. The Human to Human project aims to fill this gap by providing an alternative means of support through community donations.

Technical Requirements

To implement the donation feature effectively, DPOB requires the expertise of a qualified IT professional. This expert will be responsible for developing the donation system on the website and providing ongoing technical support.

Conclusion

The Human to Human project embodies the spirit of community and solidarity, offering a platform for individuals and organizations to make a meaningful impact on the lives of persons with disabilities. We can support those in the self-care category through collective effort, fostering a more inclusive and supportive society. By launching the Human to Human project, DPOB aims to bridge the gap between donors and persons with disabilities, ensuring that every contribution makes a significant difference, no matter how small. This initiative seeks to complement existing policies and address current challenges, ultimately enhancing the well-being of those in need.
